Voluntary Role Without Fees or Compensation

Participating as a judge is entirely voluntary, requiring no fees and offering no monetary compensation. It is an opportunity to leverage your experience and expertise for the benefit of the industry. There is no payment involved in becoming a judge, and no one can guarantee your selection based on payment.

Selective Process for Judging Roles

Applications do not guarantee immediate selection, and not every applicant will be chosen as a judge. Our careful selection process focuses on appointing judges who can offer the most valuable insights and assessments for our nominees. We oversee several distinct awards programs, and additional judges are recruited as needed for each one.

Peer Recognition

Judges are chosen based on their proven expertise and the value they bring to their field. This peer recognition ensures that only highly capable professionals are entrusted with evaluating the work of others.

Professional Distinction

The role of a judge demands a high level of knowledge and skill. Our judges are distinguished professionals with significant career achievements, demonstrating their ability to provide insightful and valuable evaluations.

Impact and Influence

Serving as a judge reflects substantial influence within your industry. Our judges are instrumental in maintaining and shaping standards of excellence across various fields.

Eligibility and Approval

Not all applications will be approved. We seek professionals capable of effectively participating. If an audit determines that a judge cannot meet these standards, their judging role will be revoked, and access will be withdrawn.

Commitment to Judging – Apply Only If You Can Dedicate the Necessary Time and Provide Valuable Feedback

Judging for the Global100 Reputation Awards requires a significant commitment of time and effort. We encourage only those who can fully dedicate themselves to thoroughly scoring submissions and offering valuable, thoughtful feedback to apply. Your contributions are vital to upholding the high standards of excellence that the Global100 Reputation Awards represent.
